Graduation

The warm June night is stirring all the trees
With faint, sweet breath; and now through woodland deeps
And leafy lanes and city streets there creeps
A mighty murmur as of some great army:
It is the voice of a million hearts
Now facing life—the soul of a Nation's youth,
With all their ardent yearning for the truth—
The Spirit of the Class of '22:

"Tonight the gates of life swing wide;
Before our eyes the battle—plain of life,
We hear the clash and clang of all its strife,
And sounding in our ears the call-to-arms;
Till now, we've gaily laughed and danced life through,
With fleeting glances at its darker side
Now must we go into the fray without a guide?
Oh who will give us arms, and lead the way?"

The voice of the Spirit lingers into silence,
A silence great and dark and deep as Death—
And all the world now seems to hold its breath
As from out the depths of the dark night comes the Answer:
"O you who stand, with awe-filled, fearful hearts,
Before the world embroiled in turmoil dire—
Lift up your gaze from the trampled mire
To the far-off height where gleams the Holy Grail.

Fight on against the evil of the earth,
But all the while, give of your youthful gladness
And hope and joy to drive away the sadness
That now enfolds the world in misty gloom:
With patience carry on your daily tasks,
Your eyes unfaltering on your Shining Goal;
And for the modern world create a Soul
That turns from grasping Sordidness to God!"

Dorothy Hobson, '22.

ADVISERS

Miss Reynolds, Miss Murdock, Miss Welch, Miss Turrell, Miss Chadderdon.

WHY I THINK CAMARADERIE IS THE BEST CLUB IN SCHOOL.

There is no question in my mind that of all the clubs in Riverside the best one is Camaraderie. Many things go to make it the best, but the one quality which stands out most is the spirit of friendship which is shown in it. In Camaraderie, all the girls band in one great organization, always ready to help each other, and always ready to do the things which go for a better school life. Everyone has a chance. Camaradarie has an influence not only upon its members, but also on the school, for whatever the board thinks is good for the school, is promptly put into effect, and thus everyone has a chance to benefit by its efforts.

If anyone were to ask me about joining a club where friendship, sociability, and good-will are predominant, my first advice would be, "Join Camaraderie."

Shirley J. Stanke,
Freshman.

Why is Camaraderie the best club in Riverside? Is it not a well known fact that between five and six hundred girls belong? This alone speaks for itself. As Shakespeare says—" 'Tis a consummation devoutly to be wish'd," for every Freshman wants to join the club immediately, if she really has the school spirit and desire to get acquainted in her new surroundings. This club is one of the greatest, most wonderfully democratic organizations among the girls and represents to us the real unbroken chain of everlasting friendship. Underneath the frivolity and pleasure are developing the sterling qualities of every girl which makes her worth while.

C. Suzanne Fortier,
Senior.

The object of the Students' Reserve is to study the ways of nature. Such being the case, various branches exist such as the gardeners' reserve, Bee keepers' reserve, and many others. The most prominent is the Gardeners' reserve, because it has a chance to show its prowess in the annual garden exhibition held each year by the county. In the three years the exhibit has been held, East's garden club, competing against the other high schools of the city, has won first place every time. The students also have won honors individually; twice the sweepstakes grand prize has been won by Riversiders, and last year two of three sweepstakes were won by Riversiders. So this little club, working unobtrusively, deserves the support of the school as much as do other larger clubs.

ENTERED AS SECOND CLASS MATTER AT THE MILWAUKEE POST OFFICE

An Appreciation

JUST after the Christmas holidays, Miss Ross, MERCURY advisor for the past six years, felt compelled, because of her duties as Chairman of the English Department and advisor of the Senior Class, to give up her work on the Advisory Board. This was a hard blow, as Miss Ross has always given much of her time and energy to the magazine. The Caduceus Club, an organization for the study of the short story and a branch of the MERCURY literary department, was sponsored by Miss Rose. Too much cannot be said in appreciation of her efforts. Many times, in former years, the MERCURY has seemed "on the rocks" when her guiding hand came to steer it into safer waters. The student body, and the Seniors particularly, felt that school life could not go on when it was learned in April that, because of illness, Miss Ross would be unable to finish the school year. We realized, however, that if she were to guide future seniors through the mazes of fourth year English, she must entirely recover, and so, although we have felt her absence deeply, we have not complained.

We extend our thanks to you, Miss Ross, both for the ideals you have inspired and the aid you have so often (and so understandingly) given. May you come back to us next year, strengthened in body and in spirit, and ready to "carry on" in the years to come as you have in the years that are passed.

The Meaning of the "E"

THE "E" is the official emblem of East Side High School; the trophy is the memorial of a victory. The reason, then, that a trophy bearing an "E" upon it should be made the foundation stone of the year book of the Class of '22 is fairly evident.

Evident, yes; but it is to be feared that the evidence will be misconstrued. Every school has its letters; every school has its trophies too, perhaps. Yet as Riversiders—East Siders—we like to feel that we cherish not the tangible, but the intangible; not the idea, but the ideal of our "E."

For, after all, just what does the "E" of our school incarnate? Merely the numbers of games that have been won, the numbers of medals that have been awarded? Anyone can cut an E out of orange felt; anyone can buy a trophy if he wants only that. It is the Spirit of the symbol, and the influence that that Spirit exerts which is the worth while part of our high school lives. Does not, then, that "E" stand for the Spirit which kept alive the qualities that won those games, the qualities which merited those medals?

The answer is obvious and unanimous. The "E" has been the guiding star of countless numbers. It has been the invigorating power of countless numbers more. It has inspired courage, courtesy, honesty, gentlemanliness, steadfastness in all who have striven for it. The meaning of the "E" is not absolute, but relative. It was not formulated in a second; it is forever growing. With each act of kindliness, of friendliness, of fair play, the "E" takes on a truer, deeper significance. Its Spirit fought through the Great War in the breasts of its sons on the battlefields of France and Belgium. And its Spirit came back to us, here, with fuller, more sympathetic depth. Contrary to public opinion, the "E" is not confined to the athlete alone. He wears it, yes, as the outward sign of his prowess. But is there anyone who has ever entered the portals of this school who has not felt its presence? There is much to be gained from the "E"; and there is always more that can be added. The trophy symbolizes merely the community's recognition of that Spirit.

The "E" has manifested itself in everything we have done in our high school careers. We speak of our "School Spirit," that quality which has meant so much in our four years of life here. What, after all, has been the inspiration of that "School Spirit?" What is it that has driven us on—led us on—made us want to go up and on? "Hitching our wagons" to our school emblems? Perhaps. But what more fitting to be idealized than that influence which, for four of our happiest years, has helped to shape our ideals of life?

Here then, is the reason for the adoption of the trophy and the "E" as the symbol of the Class of '22. May that class cherish the Spirit that the E inspires; may that class prosper in the search for the ideal; and may that class never fail to realize the beauty and true worth of the perfection that they have had before them in the highest honor their school could offer—the orange "E"!

Hortense Landau.

Revelations of Tomorrow

(Senior Class Prophecy)

THE rumbling train came to a gradual stop, and two men, carrying themselves with an air of dignity and importance, dismounted, and made their way to the interior of the spacious depot. The first of the two was large and husky, and walked with long strides. The other, a little in the rear, was trying to make his short legs move fast enough to keep up with his companion. By their appearance, it was easy to perceive that they were travelling salesmen, and by the tags on their grips, it could be seen that they represented the heralded firm of the Powell Perfection Pill.

"Come on, Blink," said Graf, the first drummer. "If you don't hustle, we'll miss the air taxi."

By supreme effort, the shorter one managed to move fast enough to keep in sight of his mate; and shortly, they found themselves reposing in a green sky-cab, and soaring above the city.

"Say," said Blink, "it surely seems good to be in Milwaukee again, and we ought to be able to sell a pile of pills among our old acquaintances."

"The old town looks pretty good to me, after an absence of twenty-five years," answered Graf, looking down upon the mass of buildings which seemed to roll along beneath them.

"But look! what are all those flags and decorations for?" inquired his partner, pointing toward the street below, along which streamers and other adornments were floating in the gentle wind.

Graf gazed for a second, and then his face brightened up suddenly, and thumping his pal upon the back, he exclaimed, "We're in great luck, Blink! Don't you remember that several weeks ago we read that Milwaukee was going to have a great Centennial Exposition sometime in June? This is undoubtedly the week of the big doings. Business institutions from all over the country are represented at the Exposition, and we are sure to run across many of our former classmates who have returned to their home town for the great event."

By this time, they had landed on the roof of the Hotel Cotzhausen. Dismounting from the plane, they took the elevator down to the lobby. Here they were accosted by a tall, stately gentleman, who seemed to be acquainted with them. They shook hands cordially, and entered into conversation. The stranger enlightened them upon the subject of the exposition, and urged them to go out to State Fair Park where the nation-wide exhibitions were on display. As he departed, he left his card, telling them to look him up at the Exposition. The card was engraved as follows:

Archie Tax and Co.,
Ford Flyabouts and Aerial Yachts
Booth No. 87.

"Who would have thought that Archie would grow up to be such a tall man?" exclaimed Blink. "It would be quite consistent now, if we should meet Miles Reinke as a dwarf."

The next morning, the salesmen decided that they would spend the forenoon selling pills, and that the afternoon would be set aside for a visit to the Exposition. Graf started out first, and entering the business section, selected a prosperous looking office building, and approached the first suite. The lettering on the door stated in bold, black letters:

Hall and Garbrecht
Investment Brokers

He found the partners in conversation with each other.

"Howdy, pals," began Graf, "I thought that I might interest you boys in a——"

At this point Hall was about to show him the door when Garbrecht suddenly exclaimed, "Why, it's June Graf!" A series of handshakes followed, and Graf, producing a small box of his pills, began again.

"I am a representative of the Powell Perfection Pill Company. These pills, if taken according to directions, and if shaken thoroughly before using, are guaranteed to eliminate baldness. They are not a new product, having gone through the test of the ages; so you are taking absolutely no risk. In proof of their merit, I offer myself as an example. Two years ago, I was nearly bald; but a kind hearted friend told me of these wonder pills, and after two doses, I was entirely cured." He took off his hat to prove his statement, but unfortunately his wig stuck to the crown, exposing a shiny, hairless head.

The morning's sales had been unusually large; so the two salesmen were in a good humor as they set out for the Exposition. A huge airplane bus which was marked with the sign, "State Fair Park, 50c," transported them to their destination, and within ten minutes of the time they had left down town, they were deposited safely in the vicinity of the Exposition.

The first thing on the grounds to attract their attention, was the Bureau of Education. Here they saw exhibits from the foremost institutions in the country. Bob Guy's Correspondence School, which specialized in instructing students how to get on the good side of teachers, was the feature exhibit of the building. Bob and his assistant, Helen Hase, were busily engaged in handling out pamphlets to advertise their institution. In talking to Bob, Graf and Blink learned that his school was located in Boston. They also learned that Ilma Lucas and Gertrude Gordon were practicing law jointly, in the same city.

In another part of the building, Mildred Cox was advertising her Girl's Country Day School, located in Salt Lake City.

Proceeding through the various buildings of the Exposition, they came across the Famous Seattle Symphony Orchestra, which was giving an exhibition concert. They recognized Adolph Strohmeyer the violinist, and Hugo Schlick, the pianist.

In another department, devoted to art, Dick Yeo, successor to Dudley Crafts Watson, was lecturing upon the subject of "Women who paint."

As a special feature of the afternoon, Kennie Eichfelt, featherweight champ, engaged in a boxing match with Bruce Mitchell. This proved to be a very interesting bout. The salesmen found themselves seated next to Sheldon Orson. They greeted him, and found that Orson was residing in Kansas City where he was engaged in literary criticism. He said that he was working on a comparison between the Grave Digger in Hamlet, and Mrs. Macbeth.

After the bout, Wilson and Schottler, rival candidates for the office of United States Dry Officials, made very spirited addresses in behalf of their campaigns.

"Plenty of our old friends are here for the Exposition," remarked Orson.

"Yes, we have met a good many," replied Graf. "Are there any others in Kansas City besides yourself?"

"Oh, yes, several. Do you remember Carter Gether and Carl Neess? Well, they are undertakers, who specialize in airplane funeral processions. Doing a good business, too. Dean Baker is a pastor in one of our large churches. I was in Chicago last week, and saw, on Dearborn Street, the Bannen and Clifford Millinery Shop, and in another part of that city, the Paine-Schilling hair dressing establishment."

The two said good day to Orson, and continued over the grounds, surveying the attractions. The exhibition of farm machinery drew large crowds. Amidst the group of interested farmers, they recognized Dave Behling and Hadley Smith, craning their necks to look at a novel machine which was being exhibited by Carl Liebert and Don McKeever, its inventors. The attraction consisted of a large airplane which carried a tankful of water. The aerial sprinkling cart was so constructed that it could fly over a field in dry weather, and gently shower water upon the thirsty crops below.

Next to the farm exhibit was a confectionery stand, called the Candee Shop, run by Rose Candee. Proceeding still farther, Graf and Blink came upon a side show where Audrey Eisendrath and Bee Borden were posing as snake charmers.

The Shetland ponies at the Wild West Show attracted great attention. Stopping, they noticed that one of the spectators was Hortense Landau, who always had been interested in ponies, in connection with her high school work.

At the floral display, which Rose Simpson had charge of, they saw Damon Hunt, who seemed much interested in a certain Rose.

They next visited the style display, where the Misses Grebel, Lamb, Kleist, and Schwab, a quartet of models from New York, were showing the latest thing in sweeping dresses.

The pure food exhibits proved to be of interest. In one corner, Virginia Modisett and Marj Alshuler were frying doughnuts to demonstrate the new product, Jazzola Cooking Oil. In another section, Bill Reed and Don Reinertson, dairymen from Thiensville, were offering the public samples of their new, odorless limburger cheese.

When the two drummers had finished coursing the exhibition grounds, they found that it was six o'clock; so without delay, they jumped into the air bus, and were soon deposited in the downtown district.

During that evening at the Athletic Club, they came across Roy Grossman.

"I expected to see him here," remarked Blink, "for this morning, when I was canvassing the residence district, I saw Margaret, and she said that Roy spent so much time at the club, that he never came home."

After their meal, they returned to the hotel, and seating themselves in the lobby, glanced over the evening paper.

"I have a Milwaukee Leader," said Graf. "Look, here's news; Mildred John is editor of this publication. Look at this item about Federal Judge Potter's resignation in order to become a baseball magnate at $45,000 a year."

"Here's an article," interrupted Blink, reading from his paper, "which says that President Blackburn has gone to Russia to confer with Toth, president of the new Russian democracy."

"Do you want to go to a movie tonight?" inquired Graf. "The Alhambra is showing a picture written by Dorothy Hobson, in which Ruth Oberndorfer and Aline Ziebell are taking the leading parts."

"No, I'd rather not go," replied Blink. "I'm all used up after this strenuous day. Besides, we had better get to bed early so that we can sell enough pills tomorrow to make up for our frivolously spent afternoon."

"Frivolously spent, possibly," added Graf, "but certainly not wasted, for it is always a pleasure to run across friends of the golden past."

The Pioneer

THE trail of the Oregon stretches its narrow, torturous length from the prodigal fertility of the Missouri valley, across the sterile plains, on and on through the vast American desert—a white trail that bridges a continent. Across the tawny sands, men have beaten that tedious track, step by step, and year by year. A symbol of all that men have dared—as long, as weary, as relentlessly difficult as the very lives of those indomitable pioneers, it lies forever stamped upon the broad prairies, scorching in the merciless sunlight, deserted in the long, cold night.

The setting sun, already reflecting the brilliant splendors of the Orient, glowed upon the drab hills, and, as if in repentance for his all-day glare, softly enchanced their rugged outlines with warm color. The faint creaking of wagon wheels slightly disturbed the evening hush of the prairie, and sent a little thrill of life and motion through that vast, lethargic desert, waiting expectant, to be called to consciousness. Occasionally, a coyote yowled its eerie, solitary protest to the echoing hills. Over the crest of a low, sage-brush covered mound there came into view a wagon, canvas-covered, and not unlike an ancient prairie schooner. It moved slowly; and, at times, a whirl of grey, fine dust almost obscured it from view. On the high, front board seat there were three figures, scarcely discernible. One was that of a man of extraordinarily hardy, sturdy build, apparently deep in thought. At times, he glanced at the two little figures at his side; or, turning to the rear of the schooner, addressed some one there. A worried, rather shrill voice called above the rattle of the wagon. The man stopped the plodding mules for a moment, turned on the creaking seat, and spoke deliberately, patiently, "It can't be far now, Mary. Just a little farther. Only about ten miles and we'll be at the end of the trail—home!" He smiled, and his homely, rugged features relaxed for a moment, before he took up the reins again and ducked to the mules. The little girl at the man's side sat gravely watching the trail ahead. Her little figure was stiff, her sun-bonneted head was raised proudly, and her bare feet swung back and forth with the motion of the wagon. Next to her a boy of about four or five sat squirming about and examining the ends of the reins.

The old schooner traveled on laboriously to a little barren homestead in eastern Oregon. It was thus that Nat Warden, with his wife and babies, traveled in the summer of 1880, over the old Oregon trail. After eight years of strenuous life there, the rugged Missouri farmer knew, fearfully, in his heart that his delicate, frail wife had somehow missed the health-giving stimulation of the western atmosphere, that their long journey over the trail had been in vain.

Mary Warden lay in the smoky little cabin bedroom, dying. Her husband stood in dumb misery, his great form bent and stooped from labor and disappointment. Two boys, of ten and twelve years respectively, stood watching their mother's face in frightened silence. Over the bed, the tall, supple figure of a girl bent. The frail woman on the bed spoke, feebly gesturing to the children and to the awkward, gaunt man, "Ruth—you'll—take care of 'em!" It was a mother's insistent seeking for the security of her own, it was the committing of a charge, a tremendous charge for the young slender girl. Ruth simply nodded her head; she accepted the trust.

* * * * * *

The life of the homesteader is one of service, of labor, of forgetfulness of self. So Ruth felt the tasks which fall to all women who have dared to be pioneers. The homely, continuous labors are those which wear the spirit away slowly, surely, as drops of rain wear away the stone. Those who would labor without failing must be as strong as the very granite of the mountains. It was Ruth upon whom the man and the boys depended. It was she who saw that Bud and John traveled every day over the deep crusted snow in order to obtain a meagre education from the old scholar whose home was ten miles distant. It was Ruth who gave; to her had been entrusted a sacred charge.

The life of Nat Warden was hard, too. From day to day he grubbed in the resisting, sagebrush covered soil to produce the food for maintaining life. But the time came when he, crippled with age, could labor no longer. The task of working the irrigable plot then fell to John, a tall, lanky lad of about twenty.

Bud, with the youthful restlessness of his eighteen years and his ambition for the advantages of the city, was preparing to leave for the East. Long into the night, his sister worked to prepare his tattered, rough clothing for his advent into the larger world. Not a great and noble task, not one that would inspire the poets to words of praise—but, as she bent, working with skilled fingers over the homely garments, the act was indicative of the whole course of her life. Hers was not a life marked by heroic epochs; it was, rather, the daily minute labor, the giving of a woman whose life was meant to be poured out for others.

Bud Warden, in the spring-time, set out to travel to the little railroad station twenty miles away. A woman stood in the doorway, watching the mounted figure as it disappeared beyond the gap. Her figure was tall, a little stooped; and her tanned, clear-cut features were strong with the strength which the life of the west imparts to young and old alike. Her grey eyes had in them the quiet, unspoken faith of those who pacing the weary earth yet look up and wish for the stars. About her lips played a half smile, expressive of the restraint which the desert teaches. For several moments she stood, fascinated, watching in silence the drab monotony of the hills. Intently she gazed toward the east; for she was young, too, only twenty-five; and she, too, dreamed dreams.

The life of a pioneer moves slowly and so did the ensuing five years creep past for Ruth Warden. One evening, at dusk,, she sat in the little rocker on the cabin porch, reading a letter. Across from her sat John, watching Ruth's face intently. The letter, post-marked "Chicago," read, in part, thus:

"We have heard that John is about to go into the fruit-raising business in California. This is, of course, much the best opportunity for him. But now that your father is gone, and Bud is in the city, there can be no need for your remaining on the ranch further. We want you to come to us. There are such really splendid advantages here, and we should be so pleased to have you. Write soon and say that you will come. Your affectionate Aunt.

With masculine enthusiasm, John spoke, "Gee, Ruth, you must do it. The only way I can succeed is to go to California. Just think how it'll be for you to get away from this." He spread his arms to indicate the rough, homely shack, and the broad prairie. The steady, grey eyes grew bright as John urged that she go to seek the happiness which life with a moderately prosperous middle-western relative meant. All the suppressed longing for the right to live her own life, for a youth which she had never known, seemed to fill her being. At last she decided to go; for, indeed, she had fulfilled her trust. Surely, her life was a gift to be used and enjoyed, not to be hidden away in the merciless seclusion of the desert. She would retrace the old trail, and leave the barren scenes of her life behind her.

With infinite care, Ruth refurnished her scanty wardrobe; with a thrill of pleasure she anticipated the change about to be made. She and John were to travel together for a little space before he went south and she east. At the close of an oppressively sultry day, Ruth sat writing to the aunt in Chicago. Suddenly, there was the rattle of wheels, and a wagon turned in the gap and crept slowly toward the ranch-house. Two men, supporting a bulky, fainting figure, got out and made their way to the door. Ruth glanced at the almost helpless figure, and uttered a low, incredulous tone, "Bud!" She prepared a place for him to lie. The wagon creaked away, and the woman bent solitously over the cot. There was no need for the weak, broken man to tell his story of his failure in the city. It was enough that he had come back to her, that she alone could, by her patient effort, restore him to life.

The next morning, a figure, mounted on an agile desert pinto, rode down the dusty gulch, enveloped in a fine, grey whirl. A woman stood in the doorway, tall and grey-eyed, watching. Perhaps that quiet, unwavering gaze once sought the east, but it turned resolutely away. The woman's head was thrown back, her hand rested on the side of the door. She watched the gulch as long as the brown figure was in sight; her gaze traveled westward along the trail, the old Oregon trail. The sun glared mercilessly down upon it, seeming to sear its outlines into the earth.

The Oregon Trail stretches away to the west. It is tedious, wearisome, torturous. It is very, very narrow. And yet, it bridges a continent.

The Spirit of '22

(Class History)

EVERY person reaches a stage in his life when the future no longer holds any charm for him; and it is at this time that he turns back and lives in the memories of the past. The great wheel of life has turned rapidly, and has brought me to the stage where I find greatest pleasure in living again in reminiscences of my youth.

The room was small and cozy, with only the fire in the grate for a light. I had been reading Pilgrim's Progress, but as the fire died down, the page grew dim before my old eyes. I had often read the book before, but tonight the Pilgrim and his journey to the Celestial City, reminded me of my course through high school. It made me feel unusually old and weary.

A strange sense of drowsiness came over me. I felt myself slipping—slipping into that unknown land of unconsciousness.

* * * * *

How long afterwards consciousness returned, I do not know. The warm rays of sunlight and the singing of birds had awakened me. I turned my head and saw around me a green plain surrounded by low rolling hills. I was lying near a pathway which wound in and out among the trees, and stretched like a white ribbon up over the hills.

Just then I heard voices and laughter, and presently a bevy of young people came around a bend in the pathway. As they did not notice me, I realized that I was there in mind, but not in body. I understood I could see and hear, but could not be seen or heard. I felt a strong desire to follow these happy children, and to learn where they were going. As they did not know of my presence. I saw no harm in doing so.

From the conversation, I gathered that all were travelling on the Journey of Wisdom to the City of Achievement. The youngest one, who seemed to have just today started on the journey, was called the Spirit of '22. I then learned that, although all were going to the City of Achievement, each one had a different way to go. At regular intervals, one would turn off intno another pathway, until only this Spirit of '22 was left.

I followed the Spirit of '22 because he seemed so very familiar to me, so like every one in my high school class of 1922 at Riverside.

He walked on, not minding in the least because he was alone. The very joy of living on this lovely morning made him happy.

Then I saw his steps become more languid and faltering. All the joy left his face, and pain and illness crept into it. At last he could walk no more, and he sank exhausted by the roadside. He lay there suffering, with this strange disease called the flu, until a kindly person, called Help, came along. Help gave him some liquid to drink, and spoke encouraging words to him. In a short time, the Spirit of '22 was well, and again started on his Journey of Wisdom.

From one of the by-paths came a person called Knowledge. He walked with the Spirit, and they talked on many subjects. The two became very fond of each other, and Knowledge consented to accompany the Spirit on his Journey.

Then I saw the two travellers, stop for a moment to rest. As the Spirit did not counsel with him, Knowledge fell asleep. The Spirit had yet to learn that Knowledge would always remain silent or asleep, unless communed with. And while Knowledge slept, I saw another figure approach. It was a youth very gay and carefree, called Folly. He told the Spirit that the Journey of Wisdom was long and arduous, and that the trials and hardships he must endure and overcome were not worth the reward. Folly also told the Spirit that directly ahead was a narrow pass guarded by a Monster of Four Marks, who had to be overcome before he could continue his journey. Folly begged the Spirit to leave Knowledge and turn aside.

The Spirit became very frightened. His illness had left him weak and afraid, and he was tempted to turn aside. Just then Knowledge awoke. He rose, took the Spirit of '22 by the hand, and they walked away. Then the Spirit was very much ashamed of himself for his weakness. When they reached the Pass of the Monster of Four Marks, the Spirit, with the help of Knowledge, overcame him without any difficulty.

I saw the two travellers walking on through the plain, overcoming small obstacles. As the sun sank behind the hills, the travellers lay down to rest. The Spirit of '22 was in a gay attitude of mind because he had journeyed one fourth of the way to the City of Achievement.

The next morning the Spirit of '22 and Knowledge arose and again set forth on their Journey. I could scarcely recognize the Spirit of '22 for he had grown tall, and more carefree than ever. The land which they had to cross was low and swampy and very unpleasant. The Spirit overcame other monsters of Four Marks, which in reality were not terrible as they seemed. When evening came, the travellers lay down to rest, for they were weary with their effort to keep on the solid ground of Understanding.

When, on the third day I saw the Spirit of '22 and Knowledge arise, the sun was well up in the sky. This was the day in which they were to pass through the land of the Gods. They climbed some low hills, and found themselves looking down into the land of the Gods. It resembled the land which they had passed through the first day, only far more beautiful. Everything in the valley tempted travellers to cast aside their burdens and stay there and be happy.

When the Spirit of '22 saw this, he was filled with gladness. Then, I saw the two travellers descend into the valley. They were met by a God called Mercury, who had been sent by Jupiter to direct them through the land. Everywhere were mortals—very lovely and very happy.

The Spirit found himself very happy and well suited for this land. He stopped and played and danced with the beautiful Goddesses. He became very enthusiastic over the games and sports of the Gods. He even took part in some of the games and came out victor. This surprised and delighted him to such an extent that he was loathe to go when Knowledge hurried him on.

The Spirit of '22 and Knowledge travelled on in this beautiful land, until they came to a noble Goddess, called Minerva, Goddess of Wisdom. She was very tall and stately, with graying hair and brown eyes that fairly looked through one.

A short distance down the road a group of Gods and Goddesses, headed by Mirth were dancing. They invited him to dance with them at their Prom, as they called it. They danced until the sun had been set many hours. Then I saw the littlest and most mischievous of all the Gods—Cupid, God of Love, shoot his darts into the crowd. But the wounds of these little darts were not very severe. The Gods and Goddess then led the Spirit of '22 to a place where there was a stage and acting. And in this also the Spirit took part.

I do not know how long the Spirit of '22 would have danced and played the hours away, if Experience, Ambition, and Knowledge had not come along and persuaded him to continue his Journey of Wisdom. Just as the sky had begun to turn rosy over the mountains in the East, the Spirit of '22 lay down to rest. He was very tired, but perhaps none the worse for the Adventure in the Land of the Gods.

And on the fourth day, I saw him rise up a different boy—nay—I think I shall say a man. The trials, difficulties, and experiences of the last three periods of time, called days, had made a man of him. He stood there fairer than any God, ready for the last quarter of his Journey of Wisdom. High above him on the mountain-tops gleamed the white walls of the City of Achievement. It would take all of his mental, physical, and moral strength to obtain it; was he equal to it? He was! No obstacle or temptation which had come up in the past would make him swerve from his path on the final climb. Bidding Knowledge and Ambition to come with him, he started up the mountain. The pathway was narrow, steep, and slippery; and it was only by the ever untiring help of his two companions that he was able to ascend.

The Journey on the fourth day was rather uneventful, that is in comparison to the previous day. The Spirit of '22 was too intent on reaching the height to listen to the songs of the Sirens, or to heed the discouraging remarks of Fickleness, Laziness, Falsehood, or Vice.

By the time the sun had sunk on the fourth day of his Journey, the Spirit of '22 saw the lights of the City a short distance ahead. As he neared the walls a great gate, made of a single pearl, swung open. A person dressed all in white, with a bright and beautiful face, stood there to welcome him.

"Come in," he said, "you are at your journey's end. For four long weary days you have suffered and endured hardships that you might reach the City of Achievement. You have done well, and you have truly deserved your reward. Come in."

The Spirit of '22 passed through, and the great gate closed.

* * * * *

A sense of loneliness swept over me, even though I knew it had been only a dream. I had again lived through my high school career, the happiest days of my life. As I sat there, musing, I asked myself just what the City of Achievement stood for. Achievement stood for Success. What, then, was the Success which after many years my classmates had accomplished?

My answer was this: "He has achieved success who has lived well, laughed often, and loved much; who has gained the respect of intelligent men and the love of little children; who has filled his niche and accomplished his task; who has left the world better than he found it, whether by an improved poppy, a perfect poem, or a rescued soul; who has never lacked appreciation of earth's beauty or failed to express it; who has always looked for the best in others and given the best he had; whose life was an inspiration, whose memory a benediction."

Virginia Lee Modisett, '22.

"We are Not as We Seem"

Speaking of the whole duty of a child, Stevenson says:

"A child should always say what's true
And speak when he is spoken to,
And behave mannerly at table;
At least as far as he is able."

I think, however, that I am safe in assuming that most children who enter high school have passed that first stage of infancy, indeed, I believe most have passed into that second and most mysterious period which is known as adolescence and is considered to be the most important stage of development.

This second stage of infancy like others has its earmarks. It causes "little hearts to flutter at a beau" and young gallants to swagger as they go. That it has always done, and probably, unless Bernard Shaw's prophecy comes true, always will. That is but natural. Likewise each age possesses some individual qualities of its own, good or bad, usually both.

Now perhaps you are beginning to see that the reason for this long dissertation is that I am gently preparing to tell you that the youth of this age is little worse than the youth of any other. There are those who say that modern youth needs no defense; others who believe no defense is possible; but let us assume this middle course, that of careful consideration.

Surely there must be cause for the rouge, the bobbed hair, the innumerable cigarettes, and the unbearing actions of the modern young man and woman. Perhaps it was the war when youth was thrown "onto its own"; perhaps it is the lack of parental supervision; perhaps this stage must come in the change from an old social order to a new; perhaps it is just the extremity and perversity of youth, but whatever it is the cause may be, the fact remains that the youth of today is far different from the youth of yesterday.

There is nothing shy or stirring about modern youth. We can see evidence of this fact all about us. Not so very long ago, no party was complete without its chaperon, but chaperons have gone out of fashion; today no one bothers to have one. Yesterday, a youth spoke when he was spoken to and respected his elders mightily, but today, youth questions. In days gone by, it was the fashion for a girl to be "pale and interesting"; but today, thank goodness, girls have put aside all "clinging vine" tendencies and are natural, healthy beings. In years gone by, youth dressed modestly, perhaps too modestly, and quietly; there is nothing particular quiet about the dress of the average Riversider and yet, I think, most dress appropriately.

Perhaps if girls did not apply rouge a cake at a time, if boys did not smoke so many cigarettes, if both boys and girls did not attempt to crowd a maximum amount of motion into minimum amount of space, there would be less criticism of and objection to modern youth.

But there are two sides to every question and likewise there are two sides to youth: the first, the exterior shown to the world; and the second, the true boy and girl. I have mentioned the superficialities, but I have not mentioned those qualities which youth has gained, those qualities which are the true distinguishing factors between the youth of today and the youth of yesterday. Chief among these is naturalness which is expressed in independence. Youth has also acquired an aggressiveness and frankness, which used with temperance should prove invaluable and an opportunity for self-development never afforded it before. Youth is for the most part, reliable, clearheaded, and fair; and a little sympathy and help will go a longer way than constant condemnation.

"We are young and the world is ours!"

Never before has a generation emerging to manhood and womanhood had a greater responsibility or a greater duty to the world. Youth does not now seem to realize that the reconstruction of a war-torn world rests upon its shoulders; nor does it seem to realize that world peace, yes, even the future of civilization depends entirely upon its own effort. Let no one fear, let no one doubt, for youth when called upon will rise to the occasion. Youth when it reaches "Man's estate" will assume its duties and "carry on" as splendidly as could be wished.

Youth is youth the world over and youth is man's playtime. It may be true that there are many things in the modern youth to criticize but those are only superficialities. We are laughing while we can but we are not forgetting our responsibilities!

Mildred John.

The Class Will

KNOW all men by these presents that, the senior class of Riverside High School, Milwaukee, Wisconsin, being of sound mind and memory, do hereby make, publish, and declare this our last will and testament, as follows, to-wit:

First: The senior class has established honorable precedents, has accepted its sheepskins, and finally has ordained and commanded that the statements, herein, be carried out in minute detail.

Second: It is the custom of this noble and venerable institution to commence action of all description with those whose names unhappily begin with A. We have in our midst several, who upon their arrival on this solar system, were queer enough to choose surnames beginning with the spoken-of letter. Margie Alshuler does hereby solemnly leave her contagious giggle to the vast and spacious halls of Riverside, that they may echo cheer to the present "assignment oppressed" members. Gertrude Arndt sadly leaves her domesticity within the walls of 117. Gerty rather hesitates to do this, as she sees use for domestic ability in the near future. Therefore, hark ye, and make use of this gift.

Our delicate colleague June, generously bequeaths his celestial daintiness to Laflin Jones. We trust that Laflin will use it to the best of his knowledge. Gaylord parts hesitatingly with his sense of humor, which is to be sacredly set aside by the Juniors—to be seen and not heard. John Potter dedicates his unusual power of argumentation to the English IV classes. Up to this time, these English IV classes necessarily struggled without this aid. However, as a result of this endowment, the labors of IV will be halved. Jack's fathomless mania for evolving puns will be handed down to the Misses Nunn and Powell who, in the near future, will compile a large volume of them. Kenny Eichfeldt bestows upon Captain Kennan his unusual skill in croquet—now rather obsolete, but coming into vogue. A success in elocution is indeed an accomplishment to be proud of, therefore when Aline wills this attainment, of years' and years' training, to Adolf Reel, we know that our successors will have something to rely on. In order that the plants in the library may have plenty of nourishment in the future, Mildred asks her friend Robert Drew to keep them fresh and fair. This task is not an easy one, and we hope the choice has been well made.

Lately, Donald has acquired a tendency toward irrepressible chatter. He wishes this hare brained irresponsible frivolity to depart to a fitting member of the Freshman class. Freshman! Your chance has come. Dick's and Bee's artistic temperaments are to fall on the capable shoulders of Don Abert. He well knows this type of cultivation. President Jimmie's popularity is difficult to bequeath to a mere individual for fear it may lead to vanity. It was therefore agreed that said popularity is to be left to all the classes as a splendid ideal toward which to strive. In this connection, it will be well to mention that the incredible intelligence of our treasurer is bestowed on Mel Marshall, not that he needs it, but——. We know that Art won't miss it. Bob's remarkable knowledge of physics can neither be disputed, nor transferred to one single friend, or underclassman. Bob's spirit will flit about 407, as an everlasting help to those in distress. Our friend agreeably contributed this to fellow sufferers. Jinnie's smile, a blessing in itself, is lovingly entrusted to locker 792. The inanimate object will tempt future occupants to smile on it as serenely as has its mistress in the past. The combined knowledge of Louie and Leroy, on the subject of economics, is cheerfully given to Ottie Hughes, who they hope won't take it. Opportunity arises to say that Lorraine Freeman, a classmate in the afore mentioned subject, decided not to will her understanding of economics to anyone. Imagine how highly it is valued! Our editor has so many gifts that she was anxious to will to the less fortunate, that it was hard to determine which to bestow. The decision was that her excess knowledge of Latin is to be left in the hands of Mr. Frank, himself. He plans to distribute it liberally among the ignorant. As the hours of the seniors are drawing to a close, the class generously gives its humor to the Juniors, its reputation to the Sophomores, and its solemnity to the Freshmen.

Thank You!

It is well nigh impossible to thank all the people who have made possible this year's MERCURY. First of all, we must thank the student body for their cheerful and willing aid whenever they were called upon; second, much thanks is due the staff who spent long and oft-times wearisome hours in selecting and organizing the material; the MERCURY monitors, the Broadway Press, and the Premier Engraving Company have helped us many times. Mr. Schneck gave us a great deal of his time, in taking all the group pictures for the Annual. Then last, but by no means least, we must express our gratitude to the Advisory Board for their conscientious and patient efforts to make the MERCURY what it is. Miss Ross, Miss Butcher, Miss Hargrave, Miss Skinner, Mr. Baker, and Mr. May have all served, in one capacity or another, as the veritable "backbone" of the magazine.

Again, then, we say, "Thank you!" May the MERCURY live long and always prosper; before very long may we succeed in our efforts to make the MERCURY the best high-school publication possible. If, in the future, there is given the help that has been given in the past, that day should not be too far distant.

THE TROPHIES

Here's to the Man Who Wears the "E"

O, here's to the man who wears the "E,"
Filled with honor, truth, and loyalty.
Here's to the man who fought and won,
Showed his worth as an East Side son.

Here's to the man who's brave and bold,
Ready to battle as a knight of old,
Fights like a bull-dog for victory,
O, here's to the man who wears the "E."

Bill Thwaits.

The Trophy Case

FEW Riversiders who pass our trophy case, on the main stairway, day after day, realize the enjoyment which it is possible to get from tracing the history of the different cups in the case. There are twenty-eight cups in all, besides three Cross Country Shields, and two Garden Contest banners. Besides the shields, there are four silver C. C. C. cups which speak well of our Cross Country teams' prowess. Nine cups for State or City track championships repose in our case. These have not yet, let us hope, reached their limit. There also reposes an old, old cup which we like to regard as the granddaddy of all cups. On its face is the legend, Basketball Champions, which remind us of the days when Milwaukee High Schools played basketball. It also proves that East is always prominent in any interscholastic athletics. Next we see the beautiful Bowling trophy won by our faculty from South Division. Six literary and debating cups repose in grandeur on our shelves, and speak of hot competition between Orient and Crescent Societies. The Puelicher garden trophy shows that Riverside's Garden Club is the most active in the city. Three Relay cups of beautiful design have been won since this event was included in the Track Meets. Also among the most beautiful cups is the cup which goes to the winner of the annual interclass meet. This cup has always been won by the Juniors or Seniors. Any school is proud of its Trophy case, and every school would be proud of East's! Mr. Mawhinney is the authority for the statement that next year's football team has the chance to put more cups in the Trophy case than any team in the history of the school. This is indeed something to work for. Let us hope that coming generations of Riversiders will place in this case as many cups as past generations have.

Review of the Football Season

EAST had seven "E" men back this year: Graf, Barnes, McCarthy, Reinke, Riordan, Wood, and Garbrecht. These, with an abundance of new material, were what Coach Mawhinney had to build a team of. If we could have kept this bunch as a nucleus, East might have finished near the top. But one by one the letter men were forced to drop out, until in the South game, Miles Reinke was the only one fit to play. McCarthy, the captain, was declared ineligible after the Lake Forest game. Barnes hurt his ankle in practice and was out until the South game. Riordan was hurt in the Lake Forest game, and his knee bothered him all season. Graf broke his collar bone in the West game. Garbrecht hurt his leg in the Washington game and was bothered the rest of the season. Wood broke three ribs in the Washington game. So the nucleus of the team was "pretty well shot." This meant that East had to send practically a green team on the field. In spite of this, we won 3, lost 5, and tied 1. Three of these games were lost by the narrow margin of a single touchdown. So considering it from all sides, East did not have a poor team this year.

East started the season well, holding the strong Loyola prep. team to a 0 to 0 score. All the letter men played in this game. The next Saturday the team travelled to Lake Forest. There they met an older and more experienced team that outweighed them 15 pounds to the man, and they were beaten 68 to 0. The team stuck to it, however, and the next Saturday, minus the services of their captain, McCarthy, they beat Racine High School at Normal field by a score of 13 to 0. This restored the team's confidence, but it restored it too much, for a week later they lost to North, 14 to 6, a game they should have won by a couple of touchdowns. This woke up the team however, and Bay View was trounced to the tune of 56 to 0. The team worked hard during the week and held the strong West Side team to a 7 to 0 victory. This game was played on a sea of mud in a steady rain. The next Saturday East met the heavy, experienced Washington team and lost as everyone expected they would. But the team did well to hold them to a 57 to 0 score as Washington kept their regular team in during all the game. Playing at Waupun the next Saturday, the team showed improvement and beat that team 31 to 0. The fellows were accorded fine treatmentt. The last game of the season was played against East's ancient foe, South. If a team ever fought hard, it was in this game as South's 7 to 0 victory will show. Most remarkable was the showing of the reserve men who will be back next year. With these men back and several letter men, among them James Kennan, captain elect, East can look forward to a successful season next year.

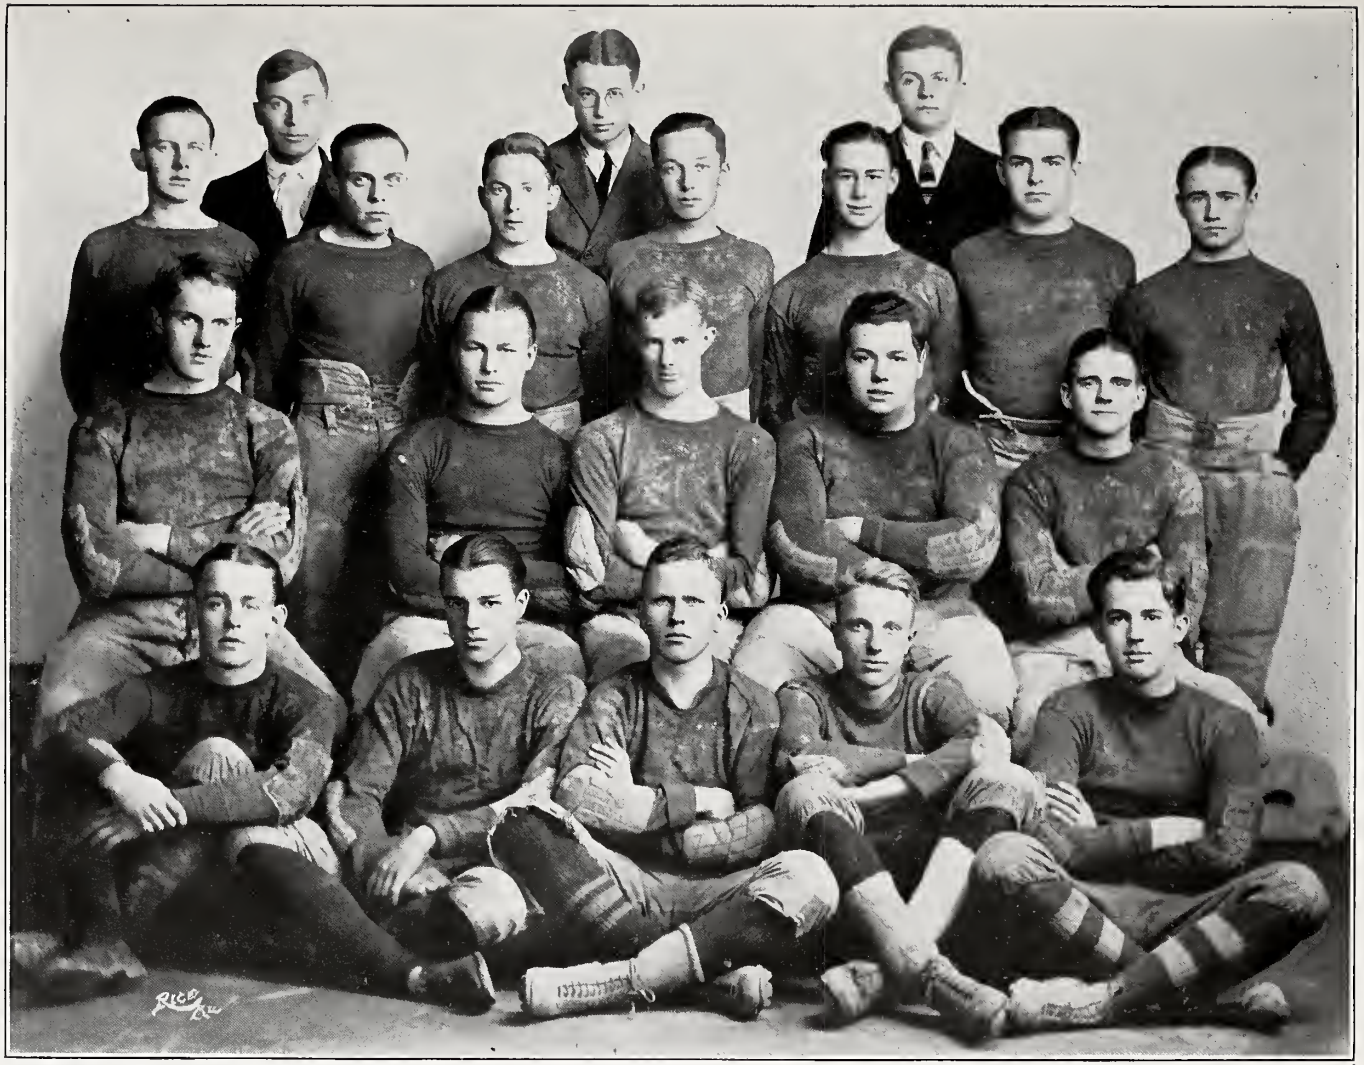
A MERCURY TRACK SPECIAL will contain notices of the results of the meets.



THE TEAM

First Row—Mawhinney, coach; Lee, manager, Schlich, manager.
Second Row—Scannell, Kneick, Berg, Kennan, Wilson, Decker, Wood.
Third Row—Potter, Olson, Reincke, Eichfeld, Guy.
Fourth Row—Carley, Garbrecht, Riordan, Teich, Reed.

Personal Glimpses

Don Garbrecht—Don-Garby. Tackle. A good man in the line. Wonderful material, but lazy. However, he did good work in all the games.

Clarence Berg—Lefty. Half or Quarter. An untiring player, always dependable. A good back or end. Remember those plunges in the West game?

Noel Wood—"Nole." Back. A fast classy back, a hard tackler, and a dependable man. A credit to any team.

Clarence Riordan—Jerry—Bill. Tackle. A man who kept up the spirit of the team by personal examples. Never discouraged.

Frederick Tiech—Frity—Sleepy. End. A man who hates work, but loves foot-ball. Good at pulling apparently hopeless forwards from the air.

Henry Scannell—Hank. End. A hard hitting Irishman. Never was beaten, Could do nearly anything when his "irish" was up.

Miles Reinke—"Mike." Center. Mike was the best center in the city, always dependable. Always in good spirits and fond of keeping the team so.

John Potter—"Jack." Guard. A good man but handicapped by his age. He should be heard from in a few years.

Russel Carley—"Pitchie." Full Back. A man who could out do any player in the city. When he hit 'em, they dropped in their tracks.

Harold Neick—"Neich." Half. Always on his toes and pulling surprise parties on the other teams. Remember the touch down against North?

Harry Barnes—"Harry." End. A regular pillar of strength at end. If they got by Harry, they had to fly. Ask Delaporte.

Ernest Graf—"June." Guard. Volumes have been written about June. He was the mainstay of the line, and was severely missed at the season's end when injuries rendered him unable to play.

Jimmy Kennan—"Jim." Quarter. Jim was the fastest tackler on the team. Remember how he stopped Harwig? As next year's captain, he should be a whiz.

Roy Shea—"Roy." Half. Roy was handicapped from the beginning with a weak back, after he was injured at Lake Forest. He was a wonderful drop-kicker.

Gaylord Wilson—"Gay." Full Back. A good player when he was mad. Another man who liked foot-ball, but hated work..

Charles Decker—"Charlie." Guard. A good heavy man. Obeyed orders readily; their presence handicapped him, but watch next year.

Kenneth Eichfeld—"Eicke." Guard. A good hard worker. Always willing. Rather handicapped by lack of experience. Too bad he hasn't another year.

Robert Guy—"Bobbie." End. Bob was a conscientious worker, and played a good game. Good at breaking up end runs. A regular "guy."

Charles Olsen—"Olie." "Charlie." Guard. A new man who had not played much before this season. He beat out a number of subs for his "E." Charlie was always ready.

William Reed—"Bill." Tackle. Bill was a good natured, hard fighting tackle. Injuries kept him from playing before, but he didn't seem to have lost anything by his absence.

THE OAK PARK MEET

For the first time in the history of the two cities, a Chicago and a Milwaukee high school met each other in athletic contest when East tried conclusion with Oak Park, a school that has the greatest athletic reputation in the country. The results were gratifing. Coach Thistlewait proclaimed our team a greater all around team than any that has ever represented Oak Park, and said that he believed we would have no trouble winning Staggs National Interscholastic should we enter.

The final score was 83 to 39, this included five points garnered by defeating the Oak Park relay team by twenty yards. This same Oak Park team had won the Western Relay Championship at the Drake Relay Games. A perusal of the following summaries will show the great work done.

Mile—Grossman, R; Baker, R; Hill, O. P. Time, 5:01 4-5.

440-Yards—Henkel, R; Van Hart, R; Yates, O. P. Time 53:3-5.

100-Yards—Smith, O. P.; Goeb, O. P.; Donahue, R. Time, :10 1-5.

880-Yards—Grossman, R; Cotzhausen, R; Kline, R. Time 2:07 3-5

100-Yard High Hurdles—McKeever, R; Perry, O. P.; Walworth, O. P. Time, :14.

220-Yard Low Hurdles—Royer, O. P.; Kennan, R; McKeever, R. Time :27 4-5.

Relay—Riverside won (Cotzhausen, Henkel, VanHart, Wood). 1.37:04.

NORMAL SECTIONAL MEET

The first sectional meet in this part of the state was held at Geo. F. Downer Stadium. Six schools entered the competition, among which were East's ancient rivals, West Division and Washington High schools. The weather was warm and the track, due to its newness, was quite soft. The boys had been warned by Coach Kahle not to let the victory over Oak Park swell their heads, and they fought as hard as they did the previous week at Oak Park. All the stands seemed full of East siders and all the boys did splendidly. VanHart won third in the 440, and thus rose to fame as the only Freshman ever to receive his letter at East. East's only regret was that South was not present so that they might try their strength against the much touted South side team, but this was impossible, as South, North and Bay View did not enter. As it was, East scored in every event, a remarkable feat, and East's final score was almost as great as that of the rest of the schools combined.

Summaries:

Relay Race—Won by Washington; Riverside, second; West, third.

ST. JOHNS INTERSCHOLASTIC

East won a clean cut victory in the first St. Johns meet held at Delafield, Wisconsin, by a score of 55 points. West was second with a total of 32, and Washington third with 27. East copped the Relay in the fast time of 1:41 2/5. Without Cotzy in the half, or Hermann in the hundred, we placed in every event except the half mile. This shows we have an all around team and not one consisting of one or two stars. Donahue's victory in the hundred over Shotola of West was the feature of the meet. Graf and Shotola tied for individual honors.

One hundred Twenty-yard Hurdles—Dilwig, Washington, first; Champney, West, second; McKeever, East, third. Time 1:06 4-5.

One hundred Yard Dash—Donahue, East, first Shotola, West, second; Wendt, Washington, third. Time, :10 2-5.

Mile Run—Grossman, East, first; Tureck, West, second; Lester, Washington, third. Time, 4:54 3-5.

Four Hundred Forty-Yard Dash—Henkel, East, first; Lenicheck, Washington, second; Van Hart, East, third. Time, :54 3-5.

Two Hundred Twenty-Yard Dash—Shotola, West, first; George, Washington, second; Wood, East, third. Time, :23 2-5.

Two Hundred Twenty-Yard Low Hurdles—Kennan, East, first; Champney, West, second; McKeever, East, third. Time, :26 2-5.

Half-Mile Run—Price, West, first; Holland, Watertown, second; Peters, Washington, third. Time, 2:11 3-5.

Half-Mile Relay Race—East, first; Washington, second; Watertown, third. Time, 1:41 2-5.

Shotput—Schwartz, Washington, first; Graf, East, second; R. Wirths, East, third. Distance, 44 feet 8½ inches.

Discus Throw—Graf, East, first; Eichfeldt, East, second; Hall, West, third. Distance 112 feet.

Javelin Throw—Graf, East, first; Schwartz, West, second; Shea, East, third. Distance, 146 feet 3 inches.

Pole Vault—Shea, East, first; Graser, West, second; R. Wirths, East, third. Distance, 10 feet 4½ inches.

Broad Jump—Shotola, West, first; Donahue, East, second; Dilweg, Washington, third. Distance, 21 feet 3 inches.

High Jump—Anger, Washington, R. Wirths, East, tie first; Monson, West, third. Distance, sion, 27; Washington, 26; Watertown, 3.

Summary—East Division, 52; West Divi- 5 feet 6 inches.

THE STATE MEET

The old school is happy again. The track team went to Madison on May 27 and, from the largest field of schools ever entered copped the state title, making it three straight consecutive championships for East, a feat never before accomplished by a State High School. At one time during the meet Washington had twice as many points at East, but East side fight came out and McKeever, Kennan, Graf, and others brought the scoring column back to normal. Donahue again defeated his rival Shotola, this time in the broad jump. Our captain as usual was individual star.

The East side Relay team, with the chance of establishing a new state record hanging before their eyes, dashed out and established a new state record of 1:36 2/5. The final scores were: East 39, West 26-2/3, Washington 23.

Javelin—Won by Graf, (M. R.); second, Hain, (M. B.); third, Liscovec, (Lac.); fourth, Cartwright, (M. S.). Distance, 148 feet 4 inches.

Discus—Won by Graf, (M. R.); second, Hein, (M. B.); third, Liscovec, (Lac.); fourth, Cartwright, (M. S.). Distance 121 feet 7 inches.

Relay race—Won by Riverside; Donahue, Van Hart, Colzhausen and Henkel; second Madison; third, South Milwaukee; fourth, Milwaukee Wash. Time 1:36 2-5. Old record, 1:38.

THE CITY MEET

In the last meet of a long hard season East maintained her unequalled record by winning the City meet. The long period of training showed in the work of some of the point winners, but the team was well rounded enough to overcome these handicaps. After trailing Washington through the greater part of the meet, East, by a final sprint a tie for first in the pole vault and second in the javelin, pulled the meet from the fire and defeated Washington 36 to 33. The outstanding feature of the meet was the winning of the mile by Kline. After being in eighth place in the half mile mark, Charlie discovered his fight, and sprinted out and beat both Sowinsky of South, and Turek of West, to the tape. This race terminated a long quest for an E by a deserving man. Shea vaulted 11 feet 2½ inches against Kub of North, and should have been credited with first, but the pole was allowed to fall through and knock the bar off. Our Captain Graf, again proved to be our largest point winner, winning one-fourth of the total points scored by East. McKeever stepped over the high hurdles to the time of 16 seconds flat, breaking a record which has stood for 21 years. He had to go some as Dilwig was two yards ahead at the gun. Our crack relay team ran away with a pretty cup heretofore the property of Washington. This meet proved the hardest, classiest meet of the season, and East may well be proud of the Track team that won it for her.

No wonder Evanston High, champions of Illinois, refused to meet us. They beat Oak Park by only four points. So passes into history the greatest track team East ever had, and considered by many competent judges the superior of any High School team in the United States.

100-Yard Dash—Shotola, West, first; Herrman, Riverside, second; Donahue, East, third; Time, 10 2-5 seconds.

120-Yard High Hurdles—McKeever, Riverside, first; Dilwig, Washington, second; Classman, Washington, third. Time, 16 seconds. seconds.

One-Mile Run—Klein, Riverside, first; Mahegan, South, second; Turek, West, third. Time, 4:43 1-5.

High Jump—Wirths, Riverside, and Svanoe, North, tied for first; Anger, Washington, third. Height, 5 feet 7 inches.

440-Yard Dash—Wendt, Washington, first; Held, Washington, second; Van Hart,; Riverside, third. Time 52 2-5.

12-Pound Shot Put—Schwarze, Washington, first; Graf, Riverside, second; Cartwright, South, third. Distance, 47 feet 7 inches.

Pole Vault—Kub, North, and Shea, Riverside, tied for first; Glaser, West, third. Height, 11 feet 1½ inches.

220-Yard Dash—Shotola, West, first; George, Washington, second; Whitty, South, third. Time, 23 1-5.

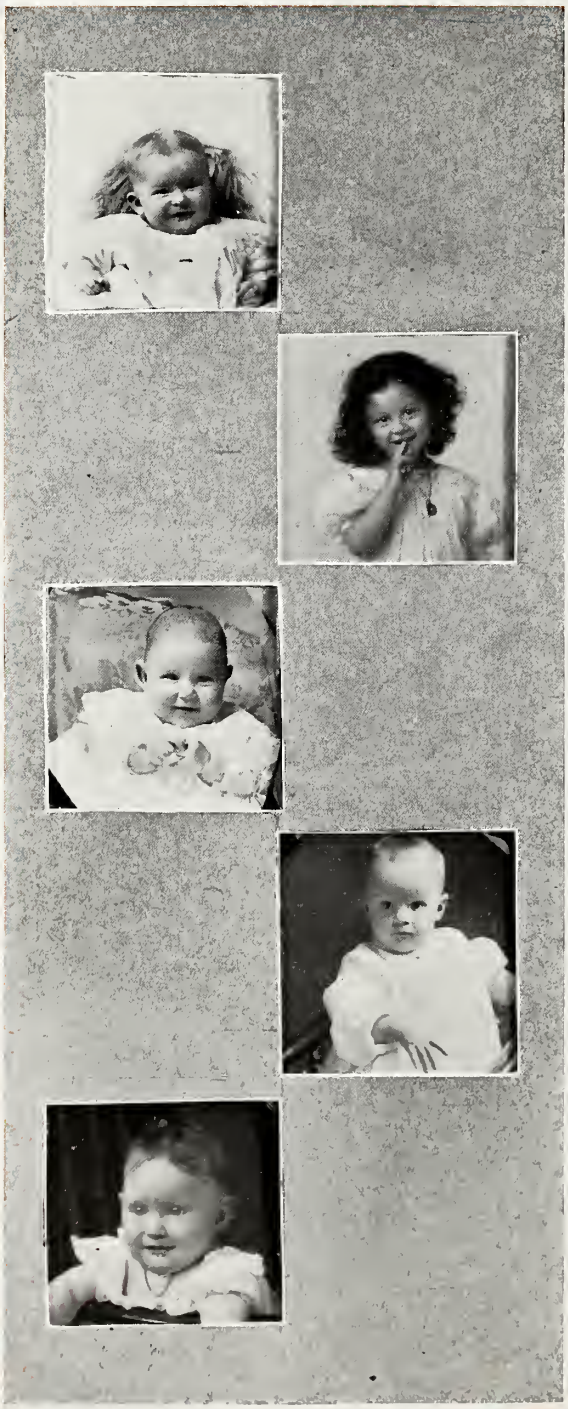
Uneeda Bisc



When little Don was one year old,
Did he ever dream
That his girl was going to be
Someone named Irene?

Even then was Mousie B.
From woman's wiles entirely free;
Sweet and shy, cute and coy,
To catch and hold a boy like Roy.

To be able to laugh thru-out life,
To be able to live without strife;
Whose talk is not like a knife,
Won't Marj. make a wonderful wife?

Here's a wee Scotch lassie,
Gladys is her name,
There is ne'er a fairer maid
In all this hall of fame.

If this picture weren't cut off
You could see the little toes
That will make our Audrey famous,
Second to none, as everyone knows.

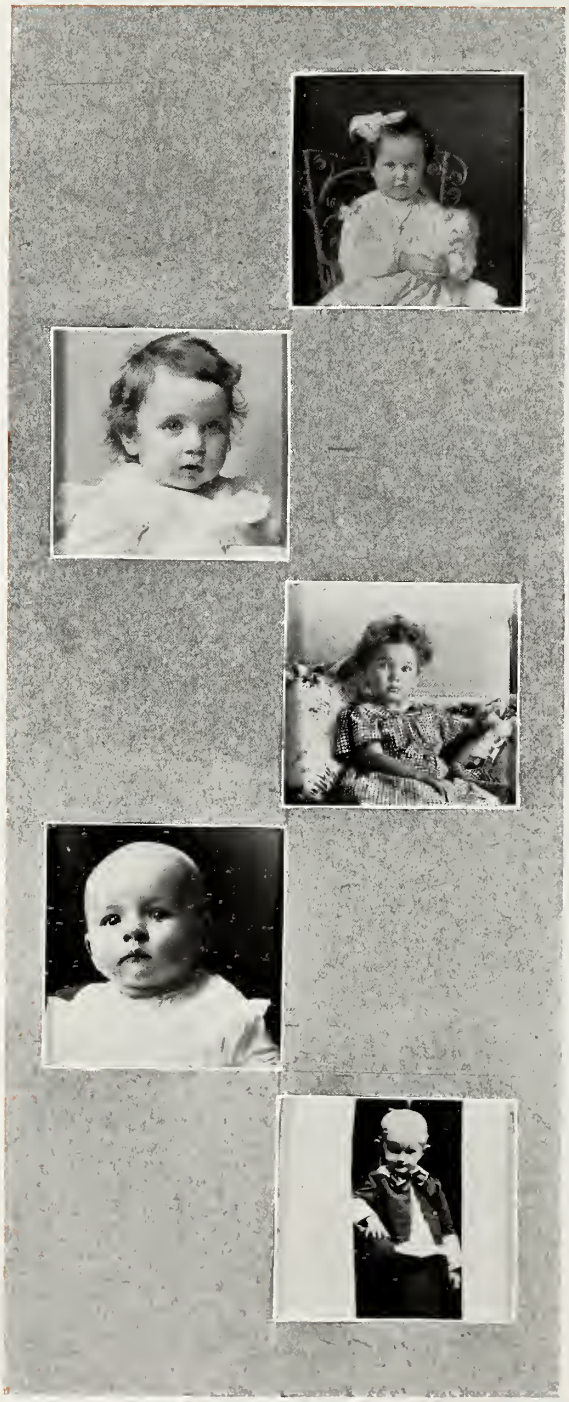
Who's the chubby darling,
Who grins the live-long day?
None but he who writes the jokes!
Could better be named "Gay"?

President of everything
Jimmy did belong to,
He never did a wicked deed
Because he thought 'twas wrong to.

A really remarkable baby
Grew up a remarkable boy.
One lady's man, student, and athlete,
This remarkable baby is Roy.

There she stands much like the flowers
That she waters with such joy,
If you doubt that she is like them,
Just ask—any boy!

Fond of girls was little Arty,
And at everybody's party
He was always to be seen
Hanging round the "Faerie Queen."



How demure she sits with dolly,
Scorning all who play with folly;
But the twinkle in her eye
Helen's shyness doth belie.

Dickie wants to be a soldier!
When the bugle starts to play.
When he gets a little older,
He'll pack his things and march away.

Watch the ball when Gertie throws,
To sports she owes her fame.
But, Gert, "Them hairs, that eye,"
Do tell us what's his name!

June has more trophies
In his case at home,
Than stones woud be needed
To pave streets of Rome!

Who can this be
In the pretty dress?
Surely no other
Than J. W. S.

Basketball and bridge she plays,
Loves to dance on all the days,
Millie does all things worth while,
But best of all's her cheerful smile.

From nineteen-eighteen to twenty-two,
On pull with the faculty Bob got thru,
Of all kinds of mischief he was the start,
And he was the breaker of many a heart

Mildred John who holds the strings
To every kind of knowledge,
Where will we go for our advice
When she has gone to college?

Could Toots Landau ever know
That some day she would grow,
Big and smart enough to be
Chief ed of our Mercury?

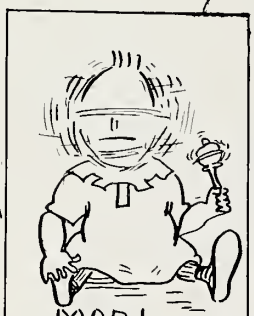
What a future Bea could find
With athletics, brush, and mind,
And though left without a cent,
She could always pay her rent!

KENNETH EICHFELDT AT THE AGE OF 3 GRIDLEY'S MILK DID IT!

ART MORSELL WASN'T VERY HAPPY WHEN THIS PICTURE WAS TAKEN

VIRGINIA MODISSETT'S PICTURE WOULD HAVE BEEN CUTE, BUT AN UGLY BUG LIT RIGHT ON HER NOSE

DICK YEO SHOWED HIS APTITUDE FOR ART AS SOON AS HE COULD HOLD A PENCIL



MARJ. ALSHULER MOVED IN THIS PICTURE. SHE WAS ACTIVE THEN, TOO.

AFTER TAKING 2 BOTTLES OF DR. MOOX'S NUTMEG SYRUP, JUNE GRAF HAD THESE RESULTS AT 3½ YRS. OLD

THRILLING MOMENTS! IMAGINE DAVE OWEN'S JOY WHEN HE WAS ALLOWED TO SIT ON A REAL DONKEY!

A man, with a ten year sentence for burglary upon his head, was thrust into a cell with a bunch of "lifers." On hearing his groans, Slim, the oldest convict asked, "How long 'er you here fer?"

"Ten long years, brother," answered the new-comer, sighing deeply.

"Gwan, bo! You don't b'long here a-tall! Why you're only spending the week-end!" was the reply.

CALAMITY.

I was out taking the fog the other day when I came upon what had once been a car. The erstwhile driver was gracefully decorating one of the fenders. However, a cup of gasoline deftly poured down his throat soon brought him back to consciousness. He sat up wildly: "If anyone ever tries to sell me a second-hand car again I'll—" "'Hush, hush," I interrupted soothingly. "I have just brought you to." To this day I have not been able to figure out why he hit me with that monkey wrench!—Ex.

"Good to the last drop," remarked the pirate, as the minister walked the plank.

Clown: What became of the ventriloquist you used to have?
Circus Manager: Oh, he found he could make more money selling parrots.

WE WANT TO KNOW.

If Homer was blind, how did he know that Helen of Troy's cheek was smooth?
If Burns was a Scotchman, how could anybody expect him to write free verse?

MERC SAYS: BE IT EVER SO HOMELY! THERE'S NO FACE LIKE YOUR OWN.

HELD BOUND (pronounce fast)

Blackburn: "I want this copy of the Merc bound."
Our Editrix: "Do you want it done in Morocco or Russia?"
Blackie: "Can't you do them here in Milwaukee?"

Four O'clocker: What time is it, please?
Miss Butcher: Ten to.
F. O.: Ten to what?
Miss Butcher: Ten' to your own business!!

Art M: "This storm may put the lights out. Are you afraid?"
? : "Not if you take that cigarette out of your mouth."

"Remember to drop me a line," said the mate as he fell overboard.

Aren't you going to study for that exam tomorrow? You know that genius often wins, but hard work always does.
That's all right, I'll take a chance on genius—he sits next to me.

First Girl: "I kissed Bob last night."
Second Girl: "Is that right?"
First Girl: "No, but it's so.

Decker: "Been to church this morning?"
Ernest: "No. Do my clothes look as if I had slept in them?"

Fresh: "Miss Bixby gave me a flunk. How does she know I don't the subject? I haven't handed in any work?"

Jim: Yes, he certainly has a geometric head!
Jam: How come?
Jim: Both plane and solid!

MERC'S OWN RADIO DEPARTMENT.
RADIO IN A PIG'S SNOOT.

By Ye Humor Editor.

We are now ready to extend our service to the reader of this august (or rather Annual) paper. By properly tuning your electric ions and ophthalmoscopic squirrel-cage, commutators, you should be able to receive from our recent broad casting station. The following is a typical concert sent out some time ago by station WOP located in the bottom of Patagonia. The wave length is 50-50. Tune your harp to this if results which we intend to give are to be obtained.

7:30 p. m. Market reports from Ring Lardner.

8:00 p. m. "It's Over Here," by Mary Garden, accompanied by the Campbell Soup Sextette.

8:30 "Practical Lessons in Battle Ship Building," by Oliver Optic Jr.

9:00 p. m. Grand Opera by the Voter's League Opera Company.

1. "Me and Gatt." . . . . . Hollerizolern
2. "Your Lies have Told Me so" . . Norwegean Folk Song
3. "Carry Me Back to Ol' West Virginia ' ' . . Anon
4. "The Sheik" . . . . . Billy Sunday

10:30 p. m. "Sample of Gun Fire by U. S. Navy.

11:00 p. m. Dance Music by Salvation Army Five.

12:00 p. m. True and False Humor, Irv. Cobb.

1:00 a. m. "Bed Time Stories for the Kiddies."

2:00 a. m. Finale "Home Sweet Home" by our select Teachers' Volley Ball Team.

QUESTION BOX.

P. K.: Use Valspar so that the sound waves will not turn it white.

O. Scar: Phones may be secured from any well equipped telephone booth.

Jane: Never move a storage battery surrepititiously from a nearby Ford, you will probably get your hands dirty again.

G. P.: Break up the piano bench. We have found sound waves have an attraction to pretty piano benches.

Grossman: "I was scared silly last winter."
Margaret: "Gee, I thought it was hereditary."

IN A DRUG STORE.

Minister: "Listen, son, do you keep the Ten Commandments?"
Murphy: "No sir, but I can show you something just as good."

"My father weighed only five pounds when he was born."
"Yee Gods, did he live?"

OUR SPECIAL SENIOR CLASS JOKE!

Senior ('22): Hello, Freshie. How's everything?"
Frosh: "Don't know. I'm not a Senior; don't know everything."

Garbrecht: "How did you come out in the Junior-Senior play rehearsal?"
Blackburn: "Head first!"

OLD STUFF.

Professor—Give me an example of the double negative.

Frosh—I don't know none.

Physics Prof. (after long-winded discourse)—Thus, we see the temperature of the metal will be zero.

Bo B.—All that work for nothing.

"Is your son gifted in any way?"

"Gifted! He ain't got a darn thing what hasn't been 'gifted' to him!"

The Hoosier wit comes to the front in their village signs: "Drive slow and see our town; drive fast and see our jail."

CORRECT!

Blackburn: "I hear this Graf is a big loafer."

Webster: "Yeh, I've heard that he gets up at 4 a. m. so that he will have more time to loaf."

HERE'S ONE OF "PA" SCHNECK'S FAVORITES.

"Pa": "What's the center of gravity?"

Class (in chorus): "Give up."

"Pa": "V," figure it out yourself. (Gra-v-ity.)

HA! HA!

"Girls," he remarked, "are prettier than men."

"Why naturally," she exclaimed.

"No," he gently corrected, "artifically."

"June" says: "Yon man has a lean and hungry look. I would have men about me that are fat."

(Result: The track team.)

STATISTICS.

Do you know that for—

Every person who goes to the Pfister because he is hungry, six go so they can brag about it afterwards?

Every doctor who admits his mistake, six bury them?

Every girl who wants to stay at home at night, six have to?

Every person having an "excellent," six have a "poor?"

Every foot in breadth, Jim is six feet in heigght??

SPOILED FRUIT.

Business Man: "Here is your family tree. Now give me $2,000."

Poor Boob: "But you said it was only going to cost $500. What is the rest for?"

B. M.: "Hush money."

Fresh: Isn't it rather difficult to eat soup with a moustache?

"Our Andy": Yes, it is quite a strain.

HERE'S OUR ANNUAL STANDBY!

"Are they still going together?

"Who?"

"Your feet, saphead."

"Pop:" (to class)—Look at your history book on your desk; I have mine in my head."

Hot: "Have you read that latest article in the Police Gazette?"
Water: "No, I shave myself."

Mother: I hope that young man never kisses you by surprise?
Daughter: Oh, no, mamma; he only thinks he does.

RIVERSIDE?

"What's the idea of cramming your handkerchief into your mouth?"
"Trying to keep from laughing. Did you hear what that flapper called that stoop shouldered, spindled-shanked, insipid youth who was escorting her?
"No."
"'My Tarzan!'"

"I should like to look at some easy chairs for my husband."
"Morris?"
"No, James."

WENT TOO FAR.

Dick: "Just happened to run into an old friend down town."
Jim: "Glad to see you?"
Dick: "Hardly, you see I smashed his whole rear fender."

"HERE'S WHERE I CARRY OUT MY PLANS," SAID THE ARCHITECT AS HE SPILLED INK ON HIS DRAWING.

TIME TO STUDY IT.

"Pa Schneck" ((in the middle of a joke)—Have I ever told the class this one before?
Class (in a chorus)—Yes.
"Pa" (proceeding)—Good. You will probably understand it this time.

Roy: "While standing in the doorway, saying goodby to your girl, did it ever dawn upon you—"
Cotzie: "Nope, I never stay quite that late."

Hubby: "Honey, I've made up my mind to stay at home."
Wifey: "Sorry, but too late, I've made up my face to go out."

"I'm going to quit the hold-up game—
I'll hang around the joint no more."
And with a sigh and gasping cry
The garter stretched out on the floor —GARGOYLE.

Lottie: "We had a terrible exam in Chem."
Jim: "Yes, it was the acid test."

First Prof.—Well, how were your examinations.
Second Prof.—A complete success. Everybody flunked.

"Have you read "The Sheik?"
"Have you read (red) flannels??"
"Have you read "If Winter Comes?"

"IT'S A HARD WORLD," SAID THE AVIATOR AS HE CRASHED TO THE EARTH.

Pat: I'd write to Chim if Oi knew his address.
Mike: Woi don't yez wroite him and get his address?

PASTE THIS IN YOUR LOCKER.

There are 14 more days till vacation.
There is no school on the third and fourth of June.
Christmas falls on the 25th of December this year.
There are only 228 shopping days until Xmas.
School does not end until June.
The class of '22 graduates this year.

Here's what the Castle Ice Gardens have done for Jane. She crawled on a street car with a pair of ice-skates over her shoulder one night. An old man got up and politely offered her his seat.

"Oh, don't bother," said Jane, "I've been sitting all evening."

"You never think of your footwear, do you?"
"Nope, that's the farthest thing from my mind."

PERSONALS.

If John Jones who deserted his wife and baby twenty years ago, will return, said baby will knock his block off.—"Bison."

Smart: "Will you give me something for my head?"
Druggist: "I wouldn't take it as a gift."

"A BOUT FACE." SAID THE MAN AS HE LOOKED AT JACK DEMPSEY.

"Conjugate cough."
"Cold, cough, coffin."

No, Jasper, I've never seen a brick walk, but I have seen a cowhide in shoe store.

MERC SAYS: EVEN A LAZY MAN THAT DRIVES A CAR HAS TO SHIFT FOR HIMSELF.

Ah, chemist of skill, investigate
This little skit of mine.
I think I know what carbonate,
But where does iodine?

Girl (R. H. S.): "Do you carry hairnets?"
Clerk: "Yes."
Girl: "Invisible?"
Clerk: "Yes."
Girl: "Let me see some."

Mr. Poet: Wifey, if the house should ever get on fire while I'm away, I hope you will remember to save my poetry before anything else.

Mrs. Poet: Yes, I suppose I will. During a fire they say one always does the most foolish things.

Duke Reinertson: "How do these love triangles usually end?"
Fuzz Guy: "Most of them turn into wreck-tangles. Now for instance—(censored).

AN APPLE A DAY.

Eddie: "How is SHE?"
June: "I went to see her the other night and found her sitting on that young Doc's knee."
Eddie: "What did you do?"
June: "Sent her a barrel of apples for a birthday present."

"Money is certainly high," said the burglar as he climbed into the fifth story window.

HOW UNREFINED!

Mike—How'd you get that swelling on your forehead?
Myke—Last night my girl's father heard me call her Sugar, and he gave me a lump.

"Don't muss my hair," she used to cry
As we'd sit in the parlor;
But since she's had it bobbed off short,
There is no cause to holler.

HOT STUFF!

"Ave": "Do you mind if I smoke?"
"Millie": "No, I don't care if you burn."

Perhaps some jokes are old,
And should be on the shelf,
But if you know some better ones,
Send in a few yourself.

"I have somewhat of a rolling gait," spoke the dice.
"Yes," agreed the deck of cards, "while I merely shuffle along."

A NEW GAME.

Waiter (at the Grab and Grunt)—Milk or water?
Customer—Don't tell me please; let me guess.

Pretty: "Who is that?"
Prettier: "That's our Pole vaulter."
Pretty: "Oh, does he speak English?"

But: I like bathing at this resort.
Nut: Why?
But: The ocean is so swell.

MATINS.

The fronded firs made inky pools
Of shadow on the lawn;
The lady moon beamed wanly
In the flush of coming dawn;
The world seemed breathless, waiting
For the miracle of day,
As I told the old, old story
In the old, old stumbling way
To a flushed and radiant creature
In a hammock by my side,
Who reclined against my shoulder
As she listened, starry-eyed.
I had reached the thrilling climax,
All my ardor at its peak—
When the sacred hush was shattered
By a shutter's raucous squeek,
And a grating voice suggested
In an acid tone and sour,
"That the young man stay to breakfast,
'T would be served in half an hour."—Ex.

Why rent, we ask, when you can buy Sherlock Ho (1) mes?

"Say, I'm stuck. Do you know anything about a flivver?"
"Nothing but a couple of funny stories."

A HOT ONE.

Prof—Please open the windows; it's very warm in here.
Voice in the Rear—You tell um, Prof—you got the degrees.

MERC SAYS: MANY A FATHER IS GLAD HE IS THROUGH WORKING HIS SON'S WAY THROUGH COLLEGE.

He (after an awkward pause)—I'd like to hold your hand.
She (bored)—I always shake hands with people when they leave.

Capitalist: Discovered a new color, eh? What makes you think that so valuable?
Inventor: Ah, sir! Just think, 't will make possible a new trading stamp or sport sheet.

"Don't mention it," said the burglar, as he gagged the old lady.

MERC SAYS SHE REMEMBERS WHEN THE BOARD OF EDUCATION WAS JUST A SHINGLE.

"She must be a very good girl."
"How come?"
"Her name came up down in the locker room the other day, and nobody knew anything about her."

The one was tight, the other loose.
Think evil if you choose.
I'm merely stating how they were,
My fire sale pair of shoes.

"Ruthie slipped on her veranda last night."
"Well, did it fit her?"

HE LAUGHS BEST WHO LAUGHS WITH OUR DEAR TEACHERS.

SUGGESTED QUESTIONS FOR INCOMING FROSH.

1. Give the density of a horse laugh.
2. Who has been abroad, and tabulate expenses?
3. How do you account for the X's in giraffe?
4. How far is up? (known before the mother-in-law joke.)
5. How does cream brick? Answer in Spanish.
6. Who was the author of the Irish Tragedy, "Ten Nights in a Bar-room"?
7. Who does the Income Tax and Why?

MERC SAYS: "IN DANCING, AS IN EVERYTHING ELSE, ONE HAS TO BEGIN AT THE FOOT."

CONSOLED.

She lay in his arms and snuggled her neck against his neck—
A rush of emotion surged through her—
Tenderly he caressed her, and she closed her eyes in delight,
"Poor Kitty, did I step on your tail?"

Professor Ferguson: "Does History repeat itself?"
Fresh: "Sure, if you flunk it!"

A Riversider stopped to get a cigarette the other day—and someone stepped on his fingers—.

NEXT!

Leonora—Oh, father, how grand it is to be alive! The world is too good for anything. Why isn't everyone happy?

Mr. Booth—Who is he this time?

Mr. X: Are your daughter's singing lessons worth the price you are paying for them?

Mr. T: Oh, yes! Why, I've just bought that house next door for three thousand dollars. A month ago, the owner wanted ten thousand.

AT 8 A. M.

Stude—You see I got up bright and early for your class, sir.

The Dean (sadly)—Early perhaps, but not bright.

Powell: "What's your idea of a clean sport?"

Wiese: "Swimming."

Doc: "I see you're back again."

Patient: "What! Still fooling with that X-ray machine?"

HEARD IN THE LIBRARY.

Miss Chamberlain: "Why don't you stop talking when I look at you?"

Ever cheerful: "Ah lady, I ain't no clock."

THE GROUND HOG MAKES A CORRECT PREDICTION EVERY FORTY YEARS. WE CLAIM HE AND THE WEATHER MAN ARE ABOUT A TIE.

TRUTH AT ANY COST.

The Father: "How is it, sir, that I find you kissing my daughter? How is it, sir?"

The Chump: "Great! Great!"

Dick: "What the duce do you mean by telling Aggy that I'm a fool?"

Harry Graf: "Heavens! I'm sorry. Was it a secret?"

NO, JASSACK, A POLYGON ISN'T ALWAYS A DEAD PARROT!

"Your car certainly has a great pick-up."

"Yeh, let's go over on Grand and try her out."

The end has come—
There ain't no more!
Upon our humor
Shut the door!
(Glad too, did you say?)

He: You look so sweet this evening I could kiss you.

She (sweetly): Jack, I always have confidence in your ability.
